The Virginia Delegates.

In its notice of the prominent men at the St. Louis Convention, the Republican of that city speaks as follows of some of the Virginians present:

COL. THOS. S. BOCKOCK.

A man of a most eventful life, and as well known as any Virginian of his time. Born in Buckingham county, and a graduate of Hampden Sydney College. Became a lawyer, and was made attorney for the commonwealth. He entered the Legislature, served two terms, and was elected to Congress in 1847. In this position he remained for fourteen years, or until the commencement of the war. In 1859 he was nominated for Speaker of Congress against Mr. Sherman. The contest was long and arduous, and he was beaten by the retirement of Sherman. He was a candidate for re-election in 1861, but on the State seceding he was elected to the provisional Congress of the Confederate States, then to the regular Congress, was re-elected and served as its Speaker during its existence. He has been in six Democratic Conventions, and holds no office but that of visitor of the University of Virginia. A warm hearted, genial, Virginia gentleman, about 55 years old, carries out jauntily, is fond of good living, is a solid judge of men, has few rough edges, and is inclined to take life with the smooth side out.

GEN. FITZHUGH LEE.

Second only to Gen. Lee, Stuart as the dashing cavalry leader in the Southern army, forty years old, five feet five inches, promising to be corpulent, brown hair, red beard, florid face, all over good nature and active life, and in his blue suit and straw tie would give the idea of a New York yachtsman or a wide-awake drummer on a collecting tour. He was born in Fairfax county, Va., and lived now quietly planting for a living in Stafford county, about sixty miles below Washington. He was of the class of 1856 at West Point, and was appointed to the dashing Second regiment of U. S. cavalry, of which Albert Sidney Johnson was colonel.
Rt. Lieut. Lee was lieutenant colonel, W. J.
Hardee and Geo. H. Thomas were majors.
Van Dorn and Kirby Smith first and second captains, and in which, also, Goss, Hood and Stoneman were officers. Lieut. Lee served on the frontier against Indians, was shot through the lungs at Wichita mountains and left for dead on the ground, was mentioned in general orders by Gen. Scott for his meritorious conduct, and ordered to West Point as instructor of cavalry tactics. After Virginia seceded he resigned from the army in '61, and entered the Confederate service, was appointed adjutant-general on Ewell's staff. Step by step he went up to major general behind Jeb. Stuart.
At Appomattox he surrendered in full command of the cavalry corps of the army of Northern Virginia. He was in every important battle in Virginia, from the first Manassas to the end. Genial, hearty, popular with all, he promises a life of usefulness and has made thousands of friends in the North by his honest desire to bridge the bloody chasm.

HON. GILBERT C. WALKER.

Take him all in all, the handsomest man of the convention from Virginia, of which he is not a delegate—only a member of the national democratic committee. Gov. Walker, as he is called, was born in Binghampton, N. Y., in 1832, graduated at Hamilton College, N. Y., became a lawyer, went to Chicago in 1864, in which distracted burgh he was twice nominated for office and beaten. In 1864 he wisely shook the dust of Chicago from his shoes and went to Virginia in search of health. He liked the Old Dominion, and organized a national bank in Richmond in 1865, of which he was president until 1869. In that year he was elected Governor of the State which office he held until 1874. In November, 1874, he was elected to Congress, which honor he still retains. He will be remembered as the presiding officer of the convention of the National Board of Trade held at St. Louis May, 1873.
Distinguished in manners and appearance he is a conspicuous person in any community with his style, including a white stockpin fastened with a black band, a pale face, innocent of side whiskers, and six feet two and a half under the standard.

S. C. NEALE.

The youngest man in the Virginia delegation; six feet three or four, spare, with easy, graceful manners, and not yet thirty. He was a member of the Legislature in 1871, is a lawyer at Alexandria.

A NEW SOCIALISTIC VENTURE.—It is understood that a new experiment in socialism is to be attempted shortly. This time in Virginia, on the banks of the Potomac, on a domain consisting of some 7,000 acres of land, including finely cultivated farms with many thousand fruit trees and a valuable water power. This place has been secured at a cost of about $50,- 000. The projectors of the new movement are Swedenborgians, Spiritualists, and Come-outers, who are recruited from every section of the country, and who have an abiding faith in the possibility of realizing the dreams of Fourier, Brisbane, and Owen upon this continent.
The immediate leaders are Mr. Samuel Leavitt, of New York, and Mr. Charles Sears, of the Co-operative Farm, St. Kevin, Kansas. A monthly magazine entitled the "Edict and the Paeonmaker," published by Leavitt, 175 Green wich street, New York, is the organ of this new scheme, which will naturally excite a great deal of interest in certain circles. The projectors of this new community believe in the society of marriage and regard both the Shakers and the Oneida Communists as social heretics.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen.

After Forty Years' trial it is testimonial of its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility.

It is eminently a Family Medicine, and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering and many a dollar in time and

DOCTORS' BILLS.

Your Regulator is one of the best family medicines I ever used. I have not spent one dollar for my family for medicine in five years, only for my Regulator, and must say it does all it promises. You can also recommend it in Colic for Stomach, it having cured a fine male of nine worth five hundred dollars. (J. A. Nelson, Macon, Ga.)

The Liver, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease, and if not regulated in time great suffering, wretchedness and DEATH will ensue.

If you feel DULL, DROWSY,

DEMLIFIED, have frequent

Headache, MOUTHER TASTES badly, poor Appetite and Tongue Coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver or "Biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently.

Hon. Alexander H. Stephens.

"Occasionally use, when my condition requires it, Dr. Simmons' Liver Regulator, with good effect."—Hon. Alex. H. Stephens.

Governor of Alabama.

"Your Regulator has been in use in my family for some time, and I am persuaded it is a valuable addition to the medical science."—

(Gov. J. Gill Shorter, Ala.)

"I have used the Regulator in my family for the past seventeen years. I can safely recommend it to the world as the best medicine I ever used for that class of diseases it purports to cure."—(H. F. Thigpen.)
